

About Pratham

Pratham was born in Mumbai as the Pratham Mumbai Education Initiative in 1994-95. Over the last nineteen years, Pratham has grown and evolved as it sought to realize its vision of “every child in school and learning well”. It did so by attempting to build a “societal mission” to understand, own, and solve problems of education. Initially, it tackled the problem of lack of pre school or early childhood education in Mumbai but it has now grown into a network of organizations with complex structures and dealing with different aspects of universal education.

The annual nationwide ASER Survey (Annual Status of Education Report) on learning levels in India states that in 2012 only about 46% of children in Grade V in India can read a Grade II level text. Through its flagship Read India program, Pratham attempts to address the problems in primary education by mobilizing communities and the Government to get involved in the process. Pratham currently reaches children in more than 6,000 villages spread across 20 states and in 26 cities across 10 states through the Read India Program. Pratham is also working to address challenges in secondary education in India through its innovative solution called the Pratham Open School of Education (POSE). Through POSE, Pratham aims to assist drop-outs in rural and urban areas to complete their secondary school examinations while simultaneously providing them with soft skills to support them in the future. Pratham is a widely recognized organization, having received notable awards such as the Skoll Award for Social Entrepreneurship, the Henry R Kravis Prize in Leadership and the CNN-IBN Indian of the Year for Public Service.
